

This year, much later than usual, the Mission laïque française (Mlf) has published a provisional directory to outline all its activities and the sites where it is present.

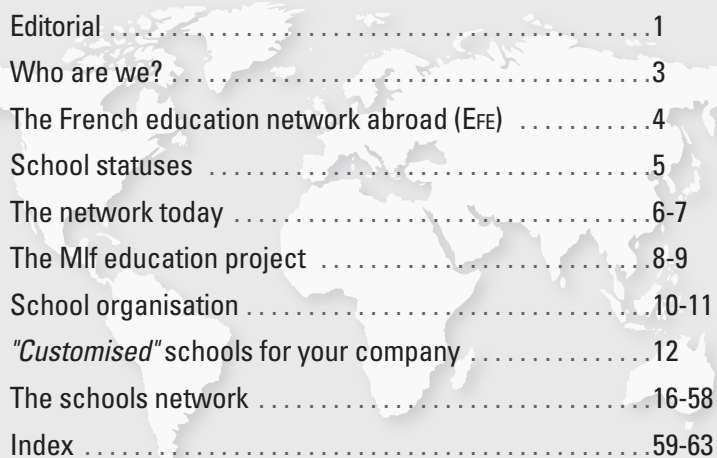

The association and the group it forms with the Franco-Lebanese Association for Education and Culture (AFLEC) can be found in a total of 39 countries: 111 schools are listed, including 36 fully managed by the Mlf itself, by the Office scolaire universitaire international (OSUI) and the Mission laïque Côte d'Ivoire, an ad hoc association formed to help with the management of the Jean-Mermoz international school in Abidjan. The list also includes the schools in Tripoli and Alep, which are currently in abeyance because of the situation in the two countries. The number of Mlf partner schools has increased to 53, with the implementation of an agreement to lend support to six state schools linked to the government system in the Gabon, approved schools which enjoy a particular status in public education in the country. As a result of the economic and financial slump which continues to affect demand, 22 company schools are on the list, four fewer than in 2015-2016, while new sites have appeared. Finally, with 17 cooperation initiatives, the Mlf continues to work on projects that support schools working with the national curriculum, and which are run partly in French and make use of the educational engineering provided by the association.

The diversity of schools and the entities that support them in the form of associations is a very common characteristic of the spread of French education worldwide, marked by the constant need to adapt, and to cooperate with privately run schools under the official education system. This gives rise to a multifaceted practice of cooperation, proving the continued interest in French educational skills, with the respective obligations and commitments they bring.

Mission laïque française (Mlf)

> An association open to the world

Created in 1902 and approved by the State in 1907, the Mlf* is a non-profit association. It carries out a public service mission committed to educating young French nationals worldwide, and providing schooling to young non-French nationals whose families wish for them to be educated in French language and culture. It is bound to the State by two agreements, with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Development (MAEDI) and the Ministry of National Education, Higher Education and Research (MENESR). It is primarily devoted to the main elements of France's foreign policy and follows the guidelines of the Ministry of National Education on complying with the approved school programmes.

> Its values: secularity, multilingualism, civic values and humanism

Within its school network, the Mlf hosts and brings together children of all origins and cultures. Orientated around secularity, it has set up an education system where two cultures meet, reinforced by the teaching of three languages. Educated in French, pupils learn the language of their host country right from nursery school age while also acquiring a third language for international communication, generally English. Apart from working towards academic excellence and the pupils' individual development, the Mlf strives to instill in them the exercise of free judgment, respect for others, understanding heritage and history and open-mindedness to the world in its diversity.

> Its expertise

The Mlf creates and runs primary schools, middle schools and secondary schools worldwide. It offers skills and services in educational engineering to companies and schools who wish to become affiliated to its network. It creates educational partnerships, in particular on behalf of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Development which entrusts it with creating schools, sometimes within a very short time frame, due to its ability to react swiftly and its flexibility in terms of management.

> A network of schools

Located in 39 countries, 111 schools of the mlfmonde network provide education from nursery school to the final school year to more than 55 000 pupils. They are part of the French education network abroad, the other great player thereof being the AEFÉ, the public body for MAEDI. The Mlf also carries out 17 educational co-operation activities in 8 different countries.

*The Mlf has been present in Morocco since 1996 under the title of Office scolaire et universitaire international (Osui). In the Ivory Coast, a non-for-profit corporation has been set up to manage the Lycée International Jean Mermoz in Abidjan. This Ivorian association promotes the values and the objectives of the Mlf.

> THE FRENCH EDUCATION NETWORK ABROAD (EFE)

The large French education network abroad consists of a total of 342 000 pupils, two-thirds of which are foreigners, receiving schooling in 495 schools in 137 countries.

The Mlf, a longstanding player within the French education network abroad, created in 1902 and approved by the State in 1907, today consists of 111 schools providing schooling to more than 55 000 pupils. It is contractually bound with the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Development (MAEDI), the Ministry of National Education, Higher Education and Research (MENESR) and the Agency for the French education system abroad (AEFE).

The AEFÉ, a public institution under the administration of MAEDI, set up in 1990, runs the schools which were previously under the direct responsibility of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Co-operation. Its missions also include managing the resources (human and financial) provided by the State to the EFE, family aid (bursaries), as well as the responsibility for the follow-up of the network's education system.

The worldwide administration of the large EFE network is managed by the MAEDI. Teaching co-ordination is under the responsibility of MENESR, which ensures, through a system of accreditation, that the schools comply with the French programme. It has trained staff within the network. Its inspection body ensures educational monitoring.

The school curriculum works towards the French Baccalaureate, sometimes even with an international option. In some countries, bilateral certification has been made possible through co-operation agreements: Abibac in Germany, ESABAC in Italy, BACHIBAC in Spain and the Franco-American baccalaureate.

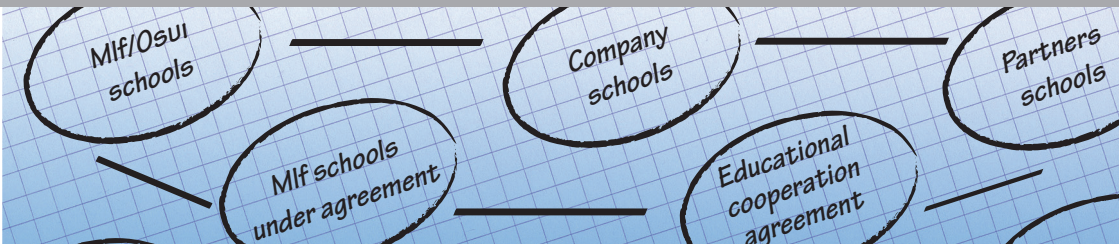

The EFE teaching programme follows the French education system. In some countries, co-operation agreements determine the syllabus and the timetables for national pupils.

> SCHOOL STATUSES

Mlf and Osui schools are an integral part of the network of French schools abroad.

The Mlf maintains close relations with the AEFÉ (Agency for the French education system abroad) through a binding agreement. Similarly, a framework agreement and a memorandum have been signed between the Mlf and the French Foreign Affairs and Education Ministries.

Below is a list of the different types of school establishment:

> Mlf/Osui/Mlci schools

The Mlf, the Osui and the Mlci are the administrators of these schools, fully run by them in terms of administration, teaching and finances.

The Mlf, a non-profit association, recognised by the State, runs 26 fully run schools. Eight of them are registered with the AEFÉ and two with the MAEDI.

The Osui, a non-profit association created by the Mlf in 1996, runs nine schools in Morocco.

The Mlci (Mission Laïque Côte d'Ivoire), an ivorian non-profit association, runs one school in Côte d'Ivoire.

> Company schools

These schools specifically cater for French and foreign companies who have called on the Mlf to provide schooling to the children of their French-speaking expatriated staff.

> Partner schools

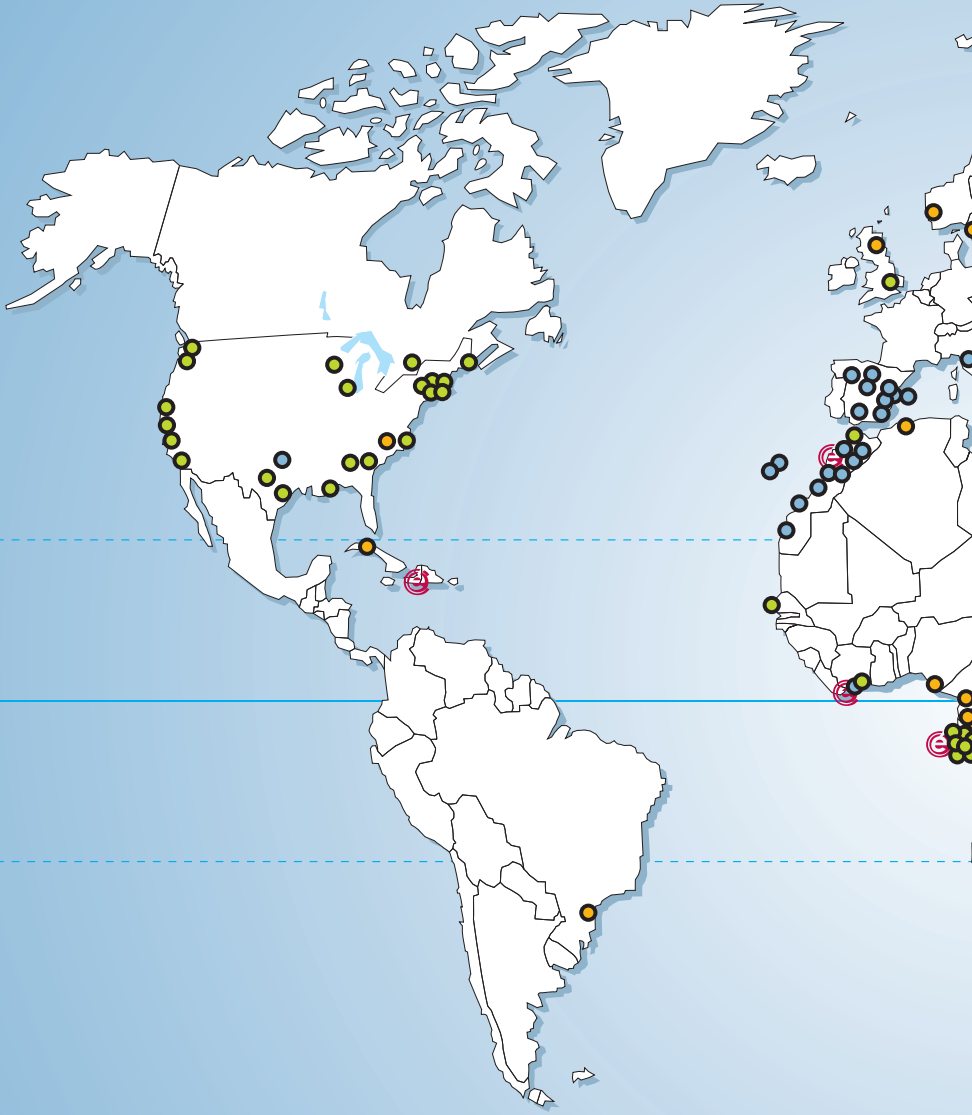

The management bodies, which have legal and financial responsibility for these schools, have formed agreements with the Mlf for academic engineering services (assistance with recruiting staff, support and follow-up for French accreditation, organization of the educational framework, etc.) or even administrative or financial assistance.

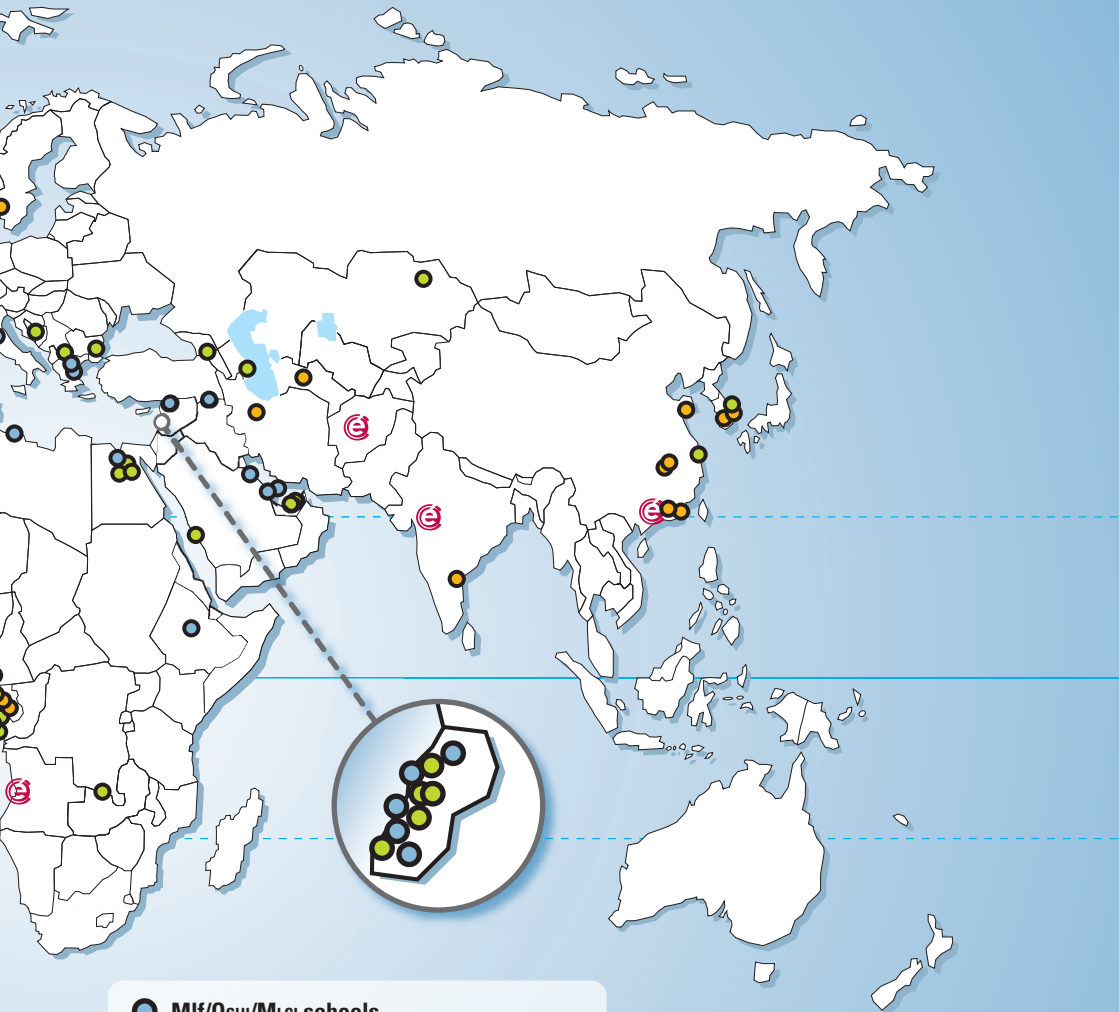

> Educational cooperation agreement

The Mlf and the Osui work on behalf of the State and of companies as part of school partnerships, particularly in crisis or post-crisis situations.

> THE MLF EDUCATION PROJECT

> About, along with and for the success of the pupil

The pupils' excellent academic results within the network show that the purpose of French education abroad goes beyond simply passing the exams. It is a global project, one which is educational as well as humane and ethical, preparing the pupils for their future.

In addition to the number and class of merit awards for the French Baccalaureate, excellence is measured by the result of a progressive and harmonious enhancement of pupils' potential throughout their school career to help them succeed and work independently.

> Main aspects in organising group work centred around the pupil and making it possible for them to build:

01 > Their ability to express themselves

02 > Citizenship responsibility

03 > The ability to be critical and work independently

All of the teachers' work is guided by this educational framework; it is discussed at staff meetings and gives the school project structure; it outlines objectives and skills which are acquired as provided for in French law, while taking into account elements specific to teaching abroad: language, culture, the curriculum and building school and university careers.

Each of the aspects of the Mlf education project includes activities common to all of them, but which each time require very specific skills: proficiency in French; learning languages with the purpose of being proficient thereby working towards being bilingual or even trilingual; acquiring a culture of humanism; social and civil skills, the bases of the cohesion of the educational community and life in society; building mathematical and technological skills; learning to work independently; using digital media.

> Parents, the Mlf offers your children innovative, multilingual and multicultural teaching

- Education based on values of secularity, ethics and open-mindedness. The schools of the mlfmonde network respect freedom of conscience for all and host pupils of all nationalities, cultures and creeds in a spirit of dialogue and mutual understanding.
- Multicultural education making it possible for the school to integrate into the host country and allowing pupils to swap between the French and local education systems (dual curriculum).
- Multilingual education with French being the language of instruction, learning the language of the host country right from nursery school, and acquiring a third language at an early age for international communication, generally English. Foreign language certification (Cambridge English, Cervantes) and French (DELF, DALF).
- Schools encourage pupils to take an actively committed role as citizens in the life of the school: the training of pupil representatives in middle schools, a school committee in secondary schools, participation in meetings and civil activities (student parliament day, actions for solidarity, UNESCO clubs, etc.).
- Primary schools, middle schools and secondary schools accredited by the French Ministry of National Education, Higher Education and Research.
- High quality education by teachers who work for the French Education Ministry and locally selected teachers.
- An excellent pass rate in the French national diplomas: Brevet (taken at the age of 15) and Baccalaureate, and a high rate of merit awards each year.

> SCHOOL ORGANISATION

> The courses

The general curriculum

It consists of three branches: economics and social studies (Es), literature (L) and science (S), each comprising common core and specific classes.

By following an optional course in the 11th grade (60% common core) and a specialty course in the 12th grade (70% specific courses), pupils choose a speciality within each section.

L branch > Based on the study of literature in tune with the modern world. Pupils also focus on the study of modern languages.

SPECIALIST SUBJECTS: arts / law and key issues of the contemporary world / ancient languages and cultures / advanced modern language 1 or 2 / modern language 3 / mathematics.

Es branch > Focuses on the study of economics and social science.

SPECIALIST SUBJECTS: advanced economy / mathematics / social and political science.

S branch > Intended for pupils with a keen interest in science.

SPECIALIST SUBJECTS: computer and digital science / mathematics / physics and chemistry / earth and life science.

Specializing in technology

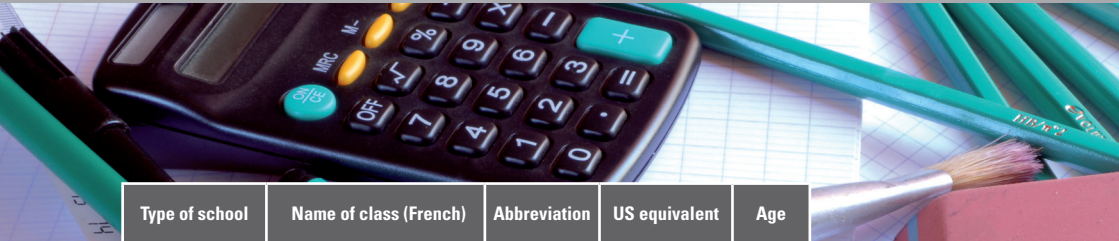

STMG branch > Focuses on management sciences.

SPECIALIST SUBJECTS: management and finance / management information systems / human resources and communication and marketing

> Schools that are approved by the French Education Ministry

To ensure compliance with the education programmes and the teaching and educational organisation, and to prepare for the French exams, the schools in the Mission laïque française are recognised by the French Education Ministry which awards certification.

This enables the pupils to go from one certified school to another or to enter a school in France without having to take an entrance exam.

> "CUSTOMISED" SCHOOLS FOR YOUR COMPANY

> Export the school to better export your company

Since the 1960s, the Mlf has specialised in educational engineering for large companies who wish to offer their expatriated staff the opportunity to school their children. It creates customised schools adapted to the partner companies' projects and the families' needs.

> A one of a kind network of company schools

22 company schools, located in 16 countries and attended by more than 2 000 pupils. In these schools, there are two types of teaching:

- face-to-face classes with French tenured teachers;
- through CNEd* (a national centre for distance education), with French tenured personal tutors.

> The Mission laïque française

- examines with you the general framework for creating a school (premises, equipment, teaching staff, etc.);
- takes responsibility for educational engineering;
- recruits teachers (employed by the French Education Ministry);
- supervises the running of the school;
- helps the teaching staff plan their extra-curricular activities to make the school a place for cultural events and influence;
- adjusts the organisation of the school and the composition of the teaching staff to any changes in numbers.

> Advantages

- A solution in those areas where a French education system is not available.
- Easier recruitment.
- Reassured families.
- A structure which brings together and hosts the expatriated community.
- An enhanced image.
